United States Court of Appeals

FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA CIRCUIT

No. 00-5212

September Term, 2000

Form and Length of Briefs. All briefs must be filed using proportionally-spaced type of at least 12-point, with margins of at least one inch on all sides. Footnotes may not be used for the presentation of any statements of fact or arguments. The prescribed page limits are the MAXIMUM allowed, and the parties are discouraged from writing to the maximum if a more succinct offering would do. The court does not assume that length necessarily equates with quality.

Amici Curiae. Briefs for amici curiae must be filed on the same date as the brief the amicus supports. Amici supporting the same side are strongly encouraged to file a joint brief. See D.C. Cir. Rule 29(d). All notices of intent to participate or motions for leave to participate as amicus curiae must be filed within 14 days of the date of this order.

Filing Format. All briefs, and the deferred appendix, must be filed in the following formats:

- , Hard copy -- 19 copies of each submission must be filed.
- , PDF -- the parties will be notified of any changes in the procedures established in the court's order filed September 26, 2000.
- , CD-Rom -- the parties and amici must file their initial and final briefs in CD-Rom format. Each brief must include hyperlinks to every case, statute, or other document cited in the brief, including those record documents to be included in the joint appendix. The parties are encouraged to cooperate so that CD-Rom versions of responsive and reply briefs incorporate briefs filed previously. The joint appendix will consist of all record documents cited by any party, presented in the order in which they are first cited. For this purpose, documents first cited by the United States in its brief will precede documents first cited in the joint brief of the state appellees. The parties are encouraged to cooperate in the production of a single joint CD-Rom version of the final briefs and appendix.

Argument. Oral argument in these cases will be held on February 26 and 27, 2001. The court will issue an order or orders at a later date establishing the time and format of argument, the order in which the issues will be presented, and any special arrangements for public and press attendance.
